

Family 'lucky' to escape house fire

Quick-thinking daughter saves her family as garage blaze spreads

A FATHER and his family escaped a fire which severely damaged their home thanks to his daughter who raised the alarm.

Roy Thomas, his wife, and three children, who did not wish to be named, managed to get out of their home with their two dogs on Saturday afternoon after his daughter spotted flames in a window.

The family, who live in Dane Hill Road in Kennett, are unable to live in their home following the fire, which started in their nearby garage.

Within "10 or 15 minutes", the fire was spreading to the house, Roy said.

He told the News: "We had just gone for lunch on Saturday afternoon when my daughter came down and said there was smoke coming from around the window."

"As she ran down the stairs, she saw flames coming from the big window in our house."

"If my daughter had not spotted it, she would not have been able to get down the stairs and would have been trapped."

Five fire engines from Soham and Suffolk attended the incident, which forced the family out onto the main road to avoid the danger.

Roy said the family were "lucky" as a passing police officer happened to see the fire, and crews were already out at a blaze in forestry near Mildenhall, getting them to the incident faster.

He added: "Because it was a hot day, the windows were open which caused the fire to spread quicker."

"I'm very relieved that we all got out to safety. The flames were terrible."

A bathroom, hallway and the porch of the family's home were destroyed, and the rest of the house was affected by smoke damage.

The garage was burnt to the ground, and the nearby hot tub was also destroyed.

"It's just one of those things," Roy said.

"Everyone is safe and no-one was hurt. You just feel totally helpless. It's so scary how it can spread but we were so lucky."

"You don't realise how much you need the fire service until something like this happens."

A Fire Emergency Support Services vehicle with a volunteer from the Red Cross team attended the blaze at about 3pm on Saturday and are now supporting the Thomases, who are having to stay with family.

The fire was caused accidentally, by an electrical fault.

£70 fine for 'too much shopping'

@NatalieR_CN

A COUNCILLOR has been hit with a £70 fine after automatic cameras believed he had been in Tesco in Newmarket for almost EIGHT hours.

Andrew Appleby was sent a charge notice from Highview Parking after his car was pictured entering the car park at 10.40am and leaving at 6.31pm.

However, Mr Appleby said it was a flaw in the system and he and his wife had made multiple journeys during the day.

He has hit out at the system as he said other people may not want to contest it and will feel obliged to pay.

He told the News: "It's a system cock-up. My worry is that some older people would get one of these and panic about it and pay unnecessarily."

"When the new store is finished and people may go and spend hours in the restaurant and then do their shopping, this is going to put them off. It needs to be considered in terms of customers satisfaction."

A spokesperson for Tesco said that the store does not operate a no returns policy so shoppers should be able to visit on multiple days without a fine.

They added: "We work very closely with our car parking providers to ensure we do the right thing for our customers. We've asked our supplier to check the system at the store and as a gesture of goodwill the fine will be cancelled."

No-one from Highview Parking was available to comment yesterday.

FANTASTIC CHANGE: Simon Dobbin, centre, is recovering following the attack in March

Attack victim shows signs of recovery

A CAMBRIDGE United fan from Mildenhall who was brutally attacked and left in a coma by a gang of rival supporters has undergone a "fantastic change" in his recovery, his wife has said.

Five months ago Simon Dobbin, 42, was set upon after a U's match in Southend.

Last month Mr Dobbin was moved from Addenbrooke's to a rehabilitation centre based at the Colman Hospital in Norwich.

Nicole Dobbin, 44, explained he has already "got his sense of humour back" and has begun to recognise some people, mouth words, laugh and move his limbs.

She said: "There was a fantastic change in him within 24 hours of him being moved."

"He's fighting – he's so alert, it's like a light's been switched on."

"If there are any witnesses I would ask them to come forward, because it could happen to anyone.

"What we've been through as a family I'd hate anyone else to go through."

However she added doctors have told Mr Dobbin's family they will not be able to assess the scale of his recovery for at least a year.

Mr Dobbin, who was wearing a Cambridge shirt at the time of the attack, suffered brain damage, damaged hips, broken ribs and a broken nose.

TERRORISM

Date set for terrorist plot trial accused

A DATE has been set for the trial of a man charged with planning a terrorist attack on American military personnel in Britain.

Juneed Ahmed Khan, 24, who is accused of intending to commit terrorist acts over the allegations, will face trial on February 15.

He faces an additional count where it is alleged he planned to stage a car accident and run over a serviceman, and was said to have "discreetly monitored" RAF Mildenhall and Lakenheath.

He appeared in court with his uncle, Shazib Ahmed Khan, who was said to be planning to join IS.

Both Khans were remanded in custody ahead of a hearing on January 11 2016 and the February 15 trial, both to take place at the Old Bailey.

SPOTTED: Freddie Flintoff at Newmarket Racecourse

Fast Freddie working on his spin-off at the races

FORMER England cricketer and household name Andrew 'Freddie' Flintoff has been spotted at Newmarket Racecourse on Saturday afternoon.

The sportsman was at the venue to film a Sky 1 series called Freddie Fries Again, thought to be a spin-off from his Flintoff: Lord of the Fries show which was broadcast on Sky 1 last year, following the cricketer as he set up his own fish and chip shop.

The latest celebrity spot came just as the racecourse recovered from its Friday evening celebrity guest, Tom Jones, who took to the stage for Newmarket Nights.

Notices were pinned up around the site to make people aware of what Freddie, 37, was up to as the camera crew followed him around the site.

The notices, from Plum Pictures Ltd, asked members of the public to notify the filming team upon entry if they didn't want to be filmed during the course of the day.

Racegoer Karen Robinson was among those who spotted the star.

She said: "I passed him as I was crossing to the parade ring and he said hello."

"He was stopping for selfies with anyone who asked and seemed very friendly."

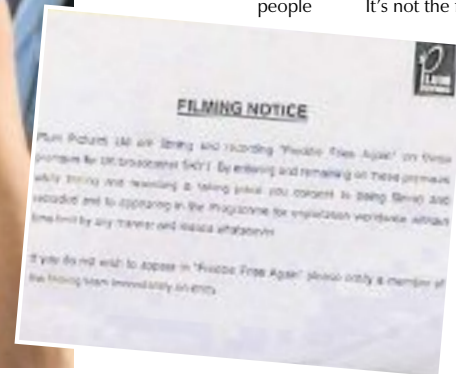

"It's not who I expected to spot at the races so I was very surprised."

"He looked like he was enjoying himself."

It's not the first time

racegoers in Newmarket have enjoyed a brush with fame.

The Duke of Cambridge was seen enjoying USA Day with friends at Newmarket's Adnams July Course on Saturday, July 18.

CRIME

Jail despite 'get out free' plans

COURT REPORTER
@Newmarket_News

A MAN who said he collected indecent images of children as part of a plan to trap paedophiles has been jailed.

Colin Warren, 66, of Howard De Walden Way, Newmarket, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court where he was jailed for nine months.

Warren was found guilty of making indecent images of children and distributing indecent images of children.

Sentencing Warren, Judge John Devaux said the jury had rejected his claim to have been attempting to identify and trap paedophiles.

Because of the seriousness of the offences and the number of images involved, an immediate prison sentence was the only appropriate option, said Judge Devaux.

Warren said he decided to act after receiving indecent images of children in a spam email. He claimed to have passed on details of six men he suspected of being paedophiles to Crimestoppers and was in the process of gathering more evidence when police called in June last year.

Officers who seized Warren's mobile phone uncovered 145 images of children, including 33 images and six movies assessed to be of the most serious type, said Hugh Vass prosecuting.

Mr Vass said Warren told police he had only downloaded the images as a way of entrapping paedophiles.

Warren kept details of people he suspected in a notebook as a "get out of jail free" card which he could produce to the authorities in the event of his arrest, said Mr Vass.

Warren denied that and said he was continuing to collect evidence after information he passed to Crimestoppers was not being acted on.

Road closed after car flips on A11

TAILBACKS: An accident near Six Mile Bottom yesterday caused long delays for commuters

A MAN and a child have been taken to hospital after a car flipped over on a slip road near Newmarket.

The East Anglian Air Ambulance was called to A14 eastbound slip road – where the A11 northbound joins at Six Mile Bottom – after reports that a car had overturned at around 9am yesterday morning.

Fire crews from Burwell and Newmarket cut one of the passengers free in the crash.

The man was said to have suffered non-life-threatening injuries and both he and the child were taken to Addenbrooke's.

The A11 northbound was closed until 10.15am and motorists faced delays back to junction with A1304.

COMMUNITY

ALL ABOARD: Michael Fleet, 17, in the driver's cab of the Cambridge Flyer and with Steve Castle and Tay Hogan on the train

Dream comes true for train-loving teen as he gets to drive a Flyer

A DREAM has come true for a train-loving teenager who was desperate to ride in a driver's cab before he loses his eyesight.

Michael Fleet, 17, from Newmarket, has a deteriorating eye condition which means that he will eventually become blind.

He wrote to train firm Great Northern explaining his dream and the company responded immediately – offering him a trip in the driver's cab of one of its Cambridge Flyers to King's Cross.

Michael sat next to the driver, Tay Hogan, in the cab on the 51-minute route from Cambridge to London King's Cross.

Michael said: "It was absolutely amazing. "It really does give you a different perspective on the line that you don't get when you are sitting on the train."

"I've had a passion for railways all my life, having caught it, I think, from my mum's side of the family – her great grandfather was a signalman at Shefford near Cambridge."

Steve Castle, a lead competency developer at Great Northern, said that as soon as the firm received the letter from Michael, they "wanted to help".

When Michael isn't studying for college, he also spends his time taking pictures and videos of trains as they pass by in the local area.

His passion helped him complete an art photography GCSE and he is now off to sixth form to study psychology, sociology and IT.

DONATION: Jack picks up £500 from Newmarket Racecourses headquarters of the Injured Jockeys Fund, to raise money for the charity.

And he came along to the Winners' Enclosure at Newmarket Racecourse on Friday evening to collect £500 for his fund.

He has raised almost £10,500, far exceeding his £2,000 target.

Jack started his charity walk after learning about the work of the Injured Jockeys Fund and the help it has given over the years.

CRIME

Alley sex charge for mum-of-two

A FRISKY drunken couple have admitted having sex outside The Grafton shopping centre in Cambridge – in clear view of passers-by.

Charlene Spice and Andreas Georgiou were caught in the steamy act in broad daylight on Burleigh Place on the evening of Saturday, July 18.

Spice, of Granby Street, Newmarket, was naked from the waist down during the 10-minute romp around the back of the shopping centre in Cambridge.

The 30-year-old mother-of-two told Cambridge magistrates last week that she was given a rare night off from the kids and it got "out of control".

Georgiou, of Victoria Road, Cambridge, was said to have initiated the rendezvous at 7.15pm when he climbed on top of Spice when her trousers began falling down.

The 34-year-old told police that he'd drunk a large amount of alcohol when they were out celebrating Spice's birthday.

At Cambridge Magistrates'

ELEANOR BUSBY
@EleanorBusbyCN

Court, both of them pleaded guilty to an act of outraging public decency, and Spice also pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly in a public place.

Paul Brown, prosecuting, told the court that the pair were "obviously intoxicated" when outside The Grafton Centre.

Spice's T-shirt was broken, which exposed her bra, and her trousers were falling down.

Members of the public then saw Georgiou climb on top of Spice on Burleigh Place before moving towards a shop door in the alley.

Spice's jeans were removed and her genitalia was exposed as they "continued to perform sexual acts" for 10 minutes, the magistrates court heard.

The pair were stopped by police, who were called to the scene. Spice struggled with officers as they tried to put her in the van.

In police interview, Spice said she had gone to Cambridge to meet up with her boyfriend – one of Georgiou's friends.

She said she became "very intoxicated" and doesn't remember anything – but she admitted it was her.

Catherine Bradd, mitigating for Georgiou, called the actions "out of character".

She added: "He was horrified when he saw the evidence. He is deeply embarrassed by this."

Georgiou was said to have been on a "three-day binge" at the time where he remembers little.

Spice, representing herself, said it was an "opportunity to have the whole night to myself and it just got out of control."

"I am completely ashamed. I am sorry," she added.

Sentencing was adjourned for reports until August 27.

Think of others before yourself

I WAS fascinated to read the responses to my earlier letter (News, July 15). What perplexes me is the apparently blind acceptance by certain councillors of the influence of business and industry in local government, whereas in fact there should be none at all!

I wonder if councillors have read and fully understood the code of conduct under which they are obliged to operate? Specifically the requirement of selflessness? Even in the official guidance to people considering becoming local councillors, this is stated as being the most onerous and psychologically difficult requirement to bare into office. Selflessness requires every councillor to set any outside business interests or views they champion at the door of the council and not to promote or facilitate those interests via the council or its authority.

This goes way beyond mere declarations of interest and covers the whole machinery of local government.

Any councillor(s) who seek to promote their own, personal, interests – as opposed to the town's interest – by any method, directly or indirectly, would therefore appear to be contravening the code of conduct, the acceptance of which is a prerequisite to remaining a councillor.

It is therefore doubly perplexing that quite so many folk from one particular facet of local business (and not the largest I might add; that is the care industry: a sector, moreover, appearing not to have a single representative on the council. Perhaps they are too busy providing a useful, necessary and appreciated service to the general townsfolk?) should spend quite so much of their time working for the general benefit of the town, without any benefit to themselves or their outside interests? It is all highly commendable, I'm sure – but just a little... odd?

Thankfully the public can now judge for themselves how effectively the council is achieving its objectives of selflessness and community-focus by typing 'Newmarket town council' into YouTube and viewing the recorded council meeting clips. Deary me, how did one viewer describe it? 'Like an unruly fifth form running rings around the supply teacher'?

Clip two appears to be popular, but others find clip six of most interest. Dear reader, do take a glance and make up your own mind.

Thanks to Oliver Cromwell we all now live in a largely free and accountable country, no longer under the sway of self-serving, absolute monarchs – unlike several other sorry states still in the world today.

One can only hope that they soon become fully representative democracies, too.

Mildenhall

FORUM AGENDA CHANGED

THERE was a surprisingly good turnout of local councillors at the latest Town & Parish Forum meeting, held last week in the newly-built community centre on the St. John's estate in Mildenhall under the chairmanship of the FHDC deputy leader, Cllr. Robin Millar, who was supported by several members of the planning department.

These meetings are held on a two-monthly basis, usually moving around the district, with a clear formula for the evening, often with an outside speaker who will deal with a topic which is especially relevant to the work of local town and parish councils.

But on this occasion, Mr Millar, having introduced the two guests, clearly saw that the evening was going well, with interaction and sound questioning from a lively, interested audience.

He therefore allowed the first part of the session to overrun by 25 minutes and, with further intercommunication during the coffee break, left out one of the major proposed items, which will be dealt with at the next meeting.

The principal guest speaker was county councillor Mrs Lisa Chambers, who serves in the Suffolk County Council cabinet, with special responsibility for families and young people, including schools.

On this occasion, she was well supported by a senior member of the Education Department, Mr Frank Stockley, whose task was to provide "the nuts and bolts", as she called it, about the current local "hotspots".

There are three main such areas within Suffolk, with Ipswich and Lowestoft being the others; but during the discussion was centred around the needs of this area of West Suffolk.

With so many representatives present who have a school, even schools, in the areas they represent or to which their village children have to travel, Mr Stockley's detailed knowledge of the current situation [and likely future proposals] was quite invaluable.

Thus, the visitors were warmly applauded when they took their leave. Mr Millar, in amending the timetable, apologised for the lack of a promised report on the TPF's memorandum of understanding, on which a small group had met only two days before.

This had taken up much time during the previous few months, with proposed revisions likely to be again discussed when the report is available.

The meeting closed with a brief discussion about recently promulgated decisions by the Suffolk Constabulary relating to a proposed reduction in the functions of the SNT teams throughout the county, notably in relation to parking surveillance.

NUMBERS THIN AT MESSY CHURCH IN WORLINGTON

WITH regular members' holidays now in full swing, including their own local minister, it was perhaps not too surprising that numbers attending last Sunday's session of "Messy Church", held in the little village hall at Worlington, near Mildenhall, were a bit lower than anticipated.

But this did not stop the service proceeding, led by Rev. Gordon Anderson and his wife Rita, the theme for the day being serving one another – illustrated by the story of Jesus washing his disciples' feet, with ways of doing so, including preparing special foot baths, being shown in the activities.

It is anticipated that the series of "Messy Church" sessions will recommence the second Sunday morning in September, hopefully with several younger members available again.

United striker drove BMW at 156mph on A1

'FOOLISH MISTAKE':
Jordan Slew has been banned for six months and ordered to pay a £1,400 fine

A CAMBRIDGE United striker living in Newmarket has been banned from driving after being caught doing 156mph in his BMW.

Police struggled to catch up with footballer Jordan Slew as he sped along the A1(M) northbound near Sawtry.

Slew, of Park Lane, Newmarket, only slowed down to 130mph when he came across another vehicle on his travels.

The 22-year-old carried out the offence on March 3 – just one month after he was signed at the U's.

Cambridge Magistrates' Court heard that it was not the first time Slew had been caught speeding.

Slew was previously sentenced for speeding on a motorway in 2012 when he received a three-month ban and a £660 fine.

Paul Brown, prosecuting, told the court that a police officer saw a BMW travelling

ELEANOR BUSBY

at a fast speed approaching the A14 crossover at around 11.15pm on March 3.

The policeman put his blue lights on and began to follow the driver – who was travelling at 156mph in lane four – but he wasn't gaining on him, the court heard.

He chased the BMW for three miles at a constant speed but he was only able to catch him when another car weaved into the lane and forced Slew to slow to 130mph.

Mr Brown stressed the road wasn't clear the whole time during the offence.

Slew pleaded guilty at the first opportunity on Tuesday to exceeding the speed limit on the motorway.

Ben Rowe, mitigating, said: "He has absolutely no excuse. He is an immature man who has made a very foolish mistake."

On the previous ban for speeding, Mr Rowe added: "Some people need to be told twice. No excuse can be put up for such a foolish mistake."

"It will cause him a great deal of inconvenience. He says it will never happen again."

Lead magistrate Philip Peacock said: "Not only will you be told twice but it will be twice as expensive in your pocket."

Slew was banned from the roads for six months and was given a £1,400 fine.

He was also ordered to pay £150 in court costs, a £120 victim surcharge and £85 in prosecution costs.

In February of this year, Slew was signed on an 18-month deal following his release by Blackburn.

Cambridge United Football Club told the News that they would not be commenting on the matter.

INQUEST

Inquests opened into crash deaths

INQUESTS have been opened into the deaths of four people who died in a car crash in Worlington last month.

Mildenhall men Matthew Grant, 24, of Churchill Drive was driving one of the vehicles, a BMW M3, accompanied by Christopher Merchant, 28, of Folly Road.

The other car, a Hyundai i30, was being driven by 77-year-old William "John" Dyal, and the passenger was his wife Helen Dyal.

The crash took place on July 17 this year, on the B1102 Freckenham Road. All four people died at the scene. Coroner Yvonne Blake gave the cause of death for each of them as multiple injuries.

Ms Blake opened inquests into all four deaths at the Active Business Centre, Bury St Edmunds, on Tuesday morning.

The inquests have been adjourned for further inquiries until September 14.

Frankel's yearlings to hit sales this October

YEARLINGS from Frankel's first crop will be going up for sale at the auction house in Tattersalls this October.

Eighteen horses from Frankel – now yearlings – are going under the hammer this year during the sale running from Tuesday, October 6 until Thursday, October 8.

Tattersalls boasts more of Frankel's yearlings than all other yearling sales combined, they said.

Edmond Mahony, chairman of Tattersalls, said: "The next chapter of the Frankel legend is set to begin and we are delighted to have 18 outstanding yearlings from his first crop in Europe's premier yearling sale."

"They are an impressive bunch both physically and on pedigree with 15 of them either out of Group and Listed winning mares or half brothers or sisters to Group and Listed winners."

NATALIE ROBINSON

@NatalieR_CN

Frankel made himself a name after going unbeaten in his 14 race career, becoming the highest rated racehorse in the world from May 2011, and winning almost £3 million in prize money over his career.

When Frankel's foals went up for auction last November, they failed to reach the hefty price expected for them.

While one of his foals broke the Irish record at 1.8 million euros, three up for grabs in Newmarket went for just 140,000 guineas, 350,000 guineas, and 200,000 guineas.

One was later sold outside the sale for £150,000, while another was withdrawn before the sale began.

It was a foal from Sea The Stars that wowed the crowds that evening, selling for 450,000 guineas.

His crop will again be represented in the yearling sales, with Sea The Stars and Galileo, Frankel's father, having 43 yearlings catalogued between them.

A total of 37 Group 1 and Classic winners have own or half brothers and sisters in October's sale, including Al Kazeem, Prince Bishop, Rizeena and Seal of Approval.

The top 20 active sires have 262 yearlings catalogued in the Tattersalls sale between them, with the current top 10 accounting for 153 yearlings up for sale.

In total, 513 lots will be auctioned at the three day event later this year.

Mr Mahony added: "We have a catalogue of outstanding quality for Book 1 of the Tattersalls October Yearling Sale."

"As ever, Book 1 is the best sale to buy a European Classic winner."

Previous success stories from the Book 1 sale include Legatissimo, who won the 2015 1,000 Guineas and was purchased for 350,000 guineas.

Australia, winner of the 2014 Derby and the Irish Derby, was purchased at Tattersalls for 525,000 guineas.

Night of Thunder, purchased for 32,000 guineas, won the 2014 2,000 Guineas. All were bought from Tattersalls' October yearling sales.

The sale takes place at Tattersalls in The Avenue between October 6 and October 8.

CRIME

Firearm raid on A142

POLICE went to an address in Fordham on Tuesday afternoon in a firearms raid.

Cambridgeshire police blocked the A142 between Fordham and Snailwell as they raided the Fordham Road address.

The incident, which police said was a "pre-planned firearms operation", happened at about 4pm.

A spokesperson for Cambridgeshire police said: "[There were] no risks to members of the public, [and it was] deemed to be an isolated incident."

"[The] suspect is still outstanding and the investigation continues."

Motorists were caught in traffic while the raid was carried out on Tuesday afternoon, with the road closed by police for about 20 minutes.

A motorist, who did not want to be named, told the News: "I saw a lot of police cars and vans but no-one knew what was going on."

"I was wondering what was happening."

Other motorists also reported seeing armed police and dog units on the road as the raid was carried out.

The A142 was closed from the industrial site.

CRASH

Man trapped under 4x4

A MOTORCYCLIST was left with broken ribs after he was trapped under a car following a crash with a 4x4 on Monday evening.

The 59-year-old man, from Newmarket, was riding a BMW motorcycle when there was a collision with a Mitsubishi L200 just before 9.30pm on Monday, August 10 on Cemetery Hill in Exning.

He was left trapped under his bike and had to be freed by fire crews, leaving him with broken ribs, a wound to his shoulder and possible internal injuries.

He was taken to Addenbrooke's where his injuries are still being assessed.

The road was closed until 2am on Monday night as the man was freed and the police investigated.

They are now appealing for witnesses or anyone who saw the vehicles to come forward.

It is thought that the motorcycle was being ridden from Exning towards Newmarket while the Mitsubishi was going in the opposite direction.

Anyone with information, whether that is seeing the vehicle before the crash or the incident itself should call Pc Joseph Skippen on 101 quoting CAD 450 of August 10.

'NARROW': Snailwell Road, where issues have been reported regarding the width of the horsewalks

Consultation to start on yellow lines

A CONSULTATION on whether yellow lines should be introduced on Snailwell Road is due to begin.

Householders in the area will be receiving letters in the coming weeks over what should be done to improve the road.

Local residents have said that since the new horsewalks were installed, the road is too narrow for traffic to pass, especially when cars are parked on the road too.

Cllr Andrew Appleby, in an email to Suffolk County Council, said he believed yellow lines would not solve the problems encountered down Snailwell Road.

Issues have also been raised with the new traffic light system as Snailwell Road leads onto Fordham Road.

A consultation is set to be carried out in the coming weeks.

CRIME

OAP 'chased' thief who stole her purse

NATALIE ROBINSON

@NatalieR_CN

TWO elderly women were targeted by thieves in Newmarket last week – with one victim in her 90s having to pursue a woman who stole £60 from her.

Police are warning shoppers to remain vigilant after brazen criminals stole purses from two women as they shopped in the town.

The first theft happened between 2.30pm and 3pm on Tuesday, August 4 in The Guineas shopping centre.

The victim, who was a woman in her 70s, was "bumped into" by another woman which caused her to stagger backwards.

A few minutes later, the victim realised her purse had been stolen from her handbag by the woman.

On Thursday, August 6, near the Clock Tower on Old Station Road, a woman in her 90s was targeted by a woman.

She was approached by a woman on the road who was claiming to be collecting money for charity.

The victim got her purse out of her handbag in order to give the woman some change for her charity collection.

It was then that the suspect "bumped" the victim's hand which caused the purse to fall to the ground.

The woman picked it up for the victim – stealing £60 in cash and a credit card holder as she did so.

She then made off along Old Station Road.

The victim chased her up to Ch-eveley Road before she lost her near to The Gallops.

Police are appealing for information following the crimes.

Anyone with any information that may help police should call Newmarket CID on 101 quoting reference NE/15/1248.

Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Police have also offered advice to shoppers to help prevent thefts like these.

They have urged shoppers to wear shoulder bags and keep them across the front of your body.

Purses should be kept out of sight and bags should be zipped up and kept closed.

If people push or bump into you, check your bag immediately and if you are approached by people who are collecting money for charity, you should ask to see photo identification.

Police also said that bags should not be left unattended or on a shopping trolley or pushchair while out in the town centre.

DEVELOPMENT

Land sale helps with charity funding in Kentford

BUILDING for homes in Kentford is progressing as developers announced they would be investing in a local veterinary charity.

The Lambert Grove development, by Bloor Homes, is 41 new homes from one to four-bedroom properties, with 12 affordable homes for local people.

The land, which is off Bury Road in Kentford, was bought from the nearby Animal Health Trust, which helps animals with diseases and injuries, providing specialist clinical services and education, as well as undertaking research.

Farrah Owens, of the Animal Health Trust, said: "As a charity we are always looking for ways to raise funds for our important research which benefits horses, dogs and cats in the UK and around the world.

"Selling an unutilised piece of land from Lanwades Park to Bloor for this development has given us a great opportunity to further our work and help even more animals."

The developers said that they were "confident" the new homes would be a "fitting addition" to the Kentford area.

They are also investing £121,000 in primary education, £24,000 in pre-school education, almost £9,000 for local libraries, and £94,000 to improve public open spaces.

PLANNING

Views needed on Local Plan

YOUR thoughts are needed on the future of Forest Heath.

A consultation opened yesterday for residents to have their say on the number of new homes needed for future generations of the district, as well as where these new homes, schools, jobs and roads should go.

The eight-week consultation launched yesterday and offers the chance to comment on site allocation, to identify which sites should be used for development, and Single Issue Review, a document which looks at the number of homes and their distribution over the next 15 years.

A number of sites have already been suggested for development, but people will also be able to put forward any potential sites that have not yet been identified, including sites for gypsies and travellers.

Forest Heath District Council (FHDC) is encouraging all residents to make their views known as part of the consultation.

NATALIE ROBINSON
@NatalieR_CN

Forest Heath District Council Leader Cllr James Waters said: "I encourage everyone who lives and works in Forest Heath to have their say.

"The decisions we take over the next year or so will have a real effect on the prosperity of our future generations and we need to get them right.

"The Local Plan must take account of local needs, be sustainable and be practical – we have to be able to deliver it. It's up to everyone with a stake in Forest Heath's future to make sure it does the job."

Responses to the consultation can be received online, or a comments form will be available from the council.

There will also be drop-in sessions and meetings in Newmarket, Lakenheath, Mildenhall and Red Lodge in the coming weeks.

Responses from the first round of the consultation will be used to decide preferred options before a further consultation in the spring.

The document will then go to the Secretary of State and there will be a public enquiry, before the formal adoption of the Local Plan is due in August 2017.

View the documents and make your comments by going to westsuffolk.jdi-consult.net/localplan.

Hard copies are also available at FHDC offices in College Heath Road, Mildenhall, or from Newmarket Customer Information in the Guineas Centre.

Short cut for Lory in charity chop LENGTHS of long locks are on their way to a charity after a woman from Newmarket cut her hair.

Lory Peresson-Robinson took the plunge and cut off about 20 inches of her hair to donate it to The Little Princess Trust, which makes wigs out of real hair for young cancer patients.

Lory, 40, who says she is "still trying to get used to the idea of short hair", is also raising money for Macmillan Cancer Care as part of the brave shave and hopes to inspire others to do the same.

Car chase ends with jail term

ELEANOR BUSBY

@EleanorBusbyCN

A MOTORIST who mounted a pavement and forced a dog walker to quickly avoid being hit during a police chase around Soham has been jailed.

David Holland, of Gimbert Road, Soham, drove his BMW – which had his 3-year-old child and partner inside – at twice the speed limit and failed to stop for the police.

During the pursuit, the 24-year-old drove down tracks, footpaths and squeezed his car between a tree and fence to get away from the police.

Sally Hickling, prosecuting, told Cambridge Crown Court that police first noticed Holland on Pratt Street at 10.15am on June 2 as he wasn't wearing a seat belt.

The police began to follow the BMW, putting on their blue lights and siren, but Holland accelerated to speeds of 60mph down Pratt Street and Queensway – where the speed limit is 30mph.

At one point, a Skoda got in his way so he swerved left and mounted the pavement on a busy road before speeding off.

He then went down a track near Berrycroft where he came across a dog walker on the path.

Ms Hickling added: "A woman had to pick up her dog, lean against the fence to avoid being struck by the car."

He caused damage to his car when he squeezed between a tree and fence before driving down a footpath so police couldn't follow.

Police arrived at his address and Holland admitted the offence, saying he abandoned his car the opposite side of the town.

Ms Hickling concluded:

"This was prolonged bad driving with disregard of the safety of others while being pursued by police."

Holland previously pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving, failing to stop when required to do so by a constable and driving without insurance and a valid test certificate at Cambridge Magistrates' Court in June.

Emma Rance, mitigating, said: "He panicked. It was a moment of madness. He simply wanted to get away rather than pull over."

On Thursday, Judge Stuart Bridge said: "This was not only a ridiculous and stupid course of conduct of being pursued, but it was also very dangerous."

He concluded that it the offence was "so serious" that only immediate custody was appropriate.

Holland was jailed for 24 weeks and was given a 12-month driving ban.

CHARITY

FOR CHARITY: Sarah, left, with friend Terri Hawes, is undertaking 18 charity runs to support her son's bike ride.

Mum's runs to match son's

A MUM from Soham has set herself a gruelling challenge to support her son who is cycling around the world for charity.

Callum Fairhurst, 18, announced earlier this year that he wanted to cycle across the globe in memory of his brother, Liam.

The intrepid teen set off on his epic 18,000-mile adventure on July 17 – but not before being presented with a prestigious Points of Light award by the Prime Minister in recognition of his fund-raising work.

Now his mum, Sarah, 48, has decided to support Callum by taking on the challenge of completing 18 10km runs between now and March next year.

Sarah, who lives in Soham with her husband, Mark, said: "I suppose this is my way of kind of coping with Callum being so far away from home and for so long, which would worry any mum.

"I've decided to do 18 10km runs to mark the fact that Callum is 18 and the fact that his ride equates to 18,000 miles.

"Every run I do will be raising money for the Liam Fairhurst

JORDAN DAY

@JordanDayCN

Foundation. However, I have also decided to do each run in memory of a child or young person we know through the charity who has sadly passed away, or for a child or young person we know who has survived terrible illness.

"I will also be making a donation to a charity or family linked to each run from our foundation, which mirrors what Callum is doing while he's cycling around the world."

Sarah, who has completed two charity runs so far, said: "My final 10k will be in New York in mid-March where I plan to meet Callum when he finishes his ride. That run will be for both Callum and Liam to say just how proud we are of them both."

The Liam Fairhurst Foundation supports young people in the UK affected by cancer, disabilities and illnesses. To sponsor Sarah, visit justgiving.com/Challenge18. To sponsor Callum, go to justgiving.com/worldcycle.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

'One stop shop' for public data

WHAT would you like to know about what your local council is doing in your area?

That is the question from Forest Heath District Council as it seeks to "improve openness" and give local people "better access to information".

Earlier this year, Forest Heath was one of a number of councils in the area, including St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Babergh and Mid Suffolk District Councils and Suffolk Coastal Council to secure a £205,000 grant from the government to improve openness and transparency.

They are now seeking feedback from residents, businesses and community groups across the Forest Heath district in a joint initiative called Releasing Data for All.

Cllr Jennie Jenkins, chairman of the Suffolk Public Sector Leaders, said: "Over the coming months we will be working with our fellow Suffolk councils, as well as our partner organisations and communities, to identify what information could most help users throughout Suffolk.

NATALIE ROBINSON

"This information, where possible, will then be published on the Suffolk Observatory website and will be accessible to everyone.

"We urge businesses, organisations or communities to get in touch with any suggestions about what information they would find beneficial."

The project is hoping to identify and publish data which is held by councils in Suffolk and could be helpful to organisations, communities or businesses.

Forest Heath District Council, along with the others taking part in the project, intends to start publishing the information by the autumn.

It said it hoped the ongoing release of information would "create a wealth of knowledge", which would then help to "support economic and social growth" around the Suffolk county.

For more information about the Releasing Data For All project, including how to get involved in the Forest Heath District Council area, call Babergh and Mid Suffolk councils on 01449 724901.

Alternatively, email open-data@babermidsuffolk.gov.uk.

Access the information when it is released on the "one stop shop" for data, statistics and reports about Suffolk by going to suffolkobservatory.info.

BICYCLE MADE FOR TWO:
Angela Watts, Jim Watt, Jon Petty and Mandy Burchett with the tandem bike

In tandem with cycling group

GIVE tandem cycling a try with a new initiative from Mildenhall Cycling Club.

A Dawes Tandem is available from the club, aiming to help people with sight or hearing loss in West Suffolk at first, but has now been opened to all.

The idea came to fruition thanks to cycling club member Angela Watts who works with people with sight and hearing loss through a company called Sensing Change.

She said: "It began as an idea to help those people I work with who can't enjoy sport and particularly cycling, it's developed into a scheme offering tandem cycling for everyone."

Partially sighted participants will be able to enjoy tandem cycling with a sighted partner or volunteer from the club through the scheme.

Angela added: "It was wonderful to see people enjoying the tandem as it provides such a great opportunity to access the many benefits of cycling."

To find out more about the scheme, call Angela on 07950 365692 or email tandem@mildenhallcc.org.uk.

'I make myself feel better by having fun!'

When he was struck down with a rare form of cancer for the second time in four years, 12-year-old Evan Rees-Humphreys made a vow: to not let this cruel disease stand in his way. Four months and thousands of pounds in fundraising later, he's kept his promise. Lydia Fallon meets one incredibly brave boy.

THE word 'inspiration' gets bandied around rather a lot, and not always deservedly so, but for Evan Rees-Humphreys there couldn't be a more fitting description.

At just 12 years old, Evan has been through more in his young life than most adults face in an entire lifetime, but is proof that when it comes to bravery and determination age is just a number.

Struck down with a rare form of liver cancer in 2010, aged only 8, and then again in April this year, Evan's been in and out of hospital more times than he cares to remember. He's faced unfathomable hardship; numerous bouts of chemotherapy, multiple operations and unbelievable pain – but has kept on smiling regardless.

"He just takes it all in his stride," says mum Sarah, speaking at their Gamlingay home. "Regardless of what he goes through he just cares about other people. Like when we heard he had it the second time I was on the phone to the consultant in tears, not being able to explain what was up, and his immediate reaction was 'Is there something wrong with Mops and Pops (nanny and granddad)?' He didn't care it was something to do with him; he was just worried about them.

"He's so determined to get on with it; never moaning and just facing up to everything with a sense of humour."

"I don't see the point in moaning," Evan agrees. "... Unless I'm going shopping!"

But it's not just Evan's courage in the face of adversity which is so impressive, since his second diagnosis, the youngster has spent every spare moment fundraising for charity, totting up almost £13,000 in just four months.

It's an admirable feat and one which hasn't gone unnoticed. Evan recently received a nomination from family friend Nikita Frampton for the 2015 Kiss Communications Young People of the Year awards, also known as the YOPEYs, which organisers say are the Oscars for young people who give to others.

Admitting, a little bashfully, the nomination made him feel 'proud', Evan says he started fundraising, "to give back to all the people who have helped me at

TRIO: Evan and his mum Sarah Humphreys with friend Nikita Frampton

Pictures: Keith Heppell

Ward C2 and PDU at Addenbrooke's."

It's also proved a fitting tribute to a special friend. "When my friend Callum died, his nan told me to live my life and think about my choices, as Callum didn't have a chance to do that. It made me think 'Right, what can I do to give back?'"

There've been cake sales, fun runs, book signings, and even a sponsored head shave. "My hair was long and blonde before," laughs Sarah, stroking her newly-shaven locks. "I'm still getting used to it; I keep going to take my ponytail out at night."

It's a sign of Evan's popularity that the whole community has got involved with the fundraising, and the "wonderful support" they've received has, Sarah says, made a horrible few months a little more bearable. "We've had to get two freezers because of all the food that people have made for Ev!"

It was Christmas Eve 2010 when Evan was first diagnosed with the liver cancer Hepatoblastoma. It's incredibly rare, with only eight children diagnosed every year, mostly under the age of 5. "It accounts for only 1 per cent of all childhood cancers," Sarah explains.

Earlier that month he'd complained of an ache in his shoulder, but there was no sign it was anything to worry about,

"and being the sympathetic mother I was I had just told him to try lying on the other side," Sarah remembers. "He woke up the next morning feeling better so went to school as normal; but then I received a phone call saying he hadn't made it in."

Sarah rushed to pick Evan up and they headed straight to Addenbrooke's. At first the doctors suspected appendicitis but soon realised it was something far more serious. "I remember the doctors coming over to me, all suited and booted like they were from Reservoir Dogs, and they said there's been a complication and they'd found a mass on his liver."

Devastated, Sarah couldn't believe what she was hearing. "My first reaction was 'He's only got one of those and I've only got one of him', and then I started blaming myself, wondering why I hadn't noticed something earlier."

The situation critical, there was no time to lose. Treatment started on Boxing Day and in the ensuing months Evan underwent six gruelling rounds of chemotherapy, as well as a nine-hour operation to resect the liver. He also had to spend the best part of three months in a halo brace after complications with his Hickman line resulted in twisted vertebra.

FUNDRAISING

Seeing her little boy suffer in such a way was, Sarah concedes, beyond heartbreaking. "But yet he never complained once," she recalls. "He tried to make light of the chemo treatment by wearing all sorts of funny hats when he lost his hair, and even though it made him feel so tired and unwell, he never let it bring him down."

And, the treatment did its job. After six rounds of chemo, doctors confirmed Evan was in remission. "We had four years of fun and frolics; we raised money, we swam with dolphins, we went to Florida, and just had a great time," Sarah says.

Life was good. Evan was feeling happy and healthy, and the family were looking forward to a brighter future. The three-monthly hospital check-ups had become six-monthly check-ups, and were just about to switch to once every year, but then in April came the news they'd been dreading: the cancer had returned. "But this time it had come back in his lungs, and unfortunately right across the middle of the lungs so surgery is limited," Sarah explains.

Treatment has proved trickier too; the first lot of chemotherapy didn't prove as effective as they'd hoped, and doctors are now looking at other options, "including two drugs we like to call 'Dolce and Gabbana'," they both chuckle.

And even though the journey ahead may be a bumpy one, it is with this sense of humour they'll tackle it. "Some days it is harder to stay strong than others, absolutely, but we always try to remain positive, because keeping a sense of fun makes it easier and gets us through it," says Sarah. "In the whole time we've been dealing with this Evan's only once had an angry 'Why is this happening to me?' outburst and his bravery keeps me strong too."

It's been a lifechanging few years for Sarah and Evan, and it's inevitable they see the world a little differently to before. "When I hear people moaning about insignificant things; when they don't appreciate everything they do have and how fortunate they are, I do get a little cross," Sarah admits.

"It's taught us not to put off till tomorrow what we can do today. To make the most of every day and appreciate the things people tend to take for granted."

"It also makes you realise that of all the things in this big, wide world, the most important one is your health – and each other."

What would be Evan's advice to other young people going through something similar? "Don't be scared of the medicine, it will only make you better, and even though you might feel bad on some days, you have to try and make yourself feel better by having fun."

Going back in time for a Roman summer

TIME TRAVEL: Lily Ison, 5, discovers what the Romans ate, while Shoshe Fujisawa, 8, right, gets to grips with the weapons used

NATALIE ROBINSON

@NatalieR_CN

ROMANS descended on Burwell last weekend for a taste of an ancient summer.

Re-enactors of Romans joined children and families from around Cambridgeshire for an afternoon of fun at Burwell Museum.

Despite the cloudy weather, the 21st century Romans got involved in lots of activities and games as well as a special Centurion challenge for the afternoon.

Mel Worgan, museum manager, said: "We had a really successful event. More than 80 people came along and we had lots of new visitors, as well, who we hadn't seen before."

Visitors who took on the challenge found themselves trying on a Roman soldier's outfit and making their own shields and catapults.

Mel added: "The event only ran for two-and-a-half hours but we crammed plenty in."

The next event at Burwell Museum is tomorrow where you can travel back to the 60s and embrace flower power.

For more information, go to burwellmuseum.org.uk or search for Burwell Museum on Facebook.

Dressed for success

THE archetypal 80s band, Spandau Ballet return for a second time to Newmarket, playing the Newmarket Nights show on Friday.

They arrived on our radio, in our magazines and on our screens right at the beginning of the 1980s, with the sense that they were a team, a gang, albeit an extremely extravagantly-dressed kind of a gang. Founded in the punk era by school friends Gary Kemp, John Keeble and Steve Norman, Tony Hadley was enlisted to sing and then Gary's younger brother Martin joined on bass a couple of years later.

Martin, pictured right, says: "It's always a bit of a blur. There are some moments that are really vivid, and some moments that I'll catch on MTV and look at it, and it feels like somebody else. There are some moments that I'm not sure if I remember, or if they're from a video."

Martin clearly adored the whole whirlwind, though. "The 80s was a great period, there were great songs coming from everywhere, it just seemed to be a real stream of good stuff coming out."

Genuinely excited and animated when talking about the current tour, Martin has even gained a different perspective on the band's immense back-catalogue by performing around the world.

"It's a funny thing," he explains "because over here we think that everybody's going to think the best Spandau track is Gold. But you go to different countries and they have different favourites. If you go to America the national anthem of slow songs over there is True, and then in Italy, for example, it's I Fly For You. Countries joined the Spandau train at different times, so they all have their big Spandau tracks."

He refuses to be drawn on what his own particular favourite is, though.

A contented family man, having been happily married to fellow 80s star Pepsi (of Wham-backing-singers Pepsi and Shirley fame), and with grown up kids, his philosophy on life appears to have served him well through the years of craziness and beyond. "I love the whole idea of entertainment – everything that I do is my hobby. I tell my kids that a lot."

And, as he anticipates the band's second appearance at Newmarket Nights this weekend (they first played there in 2010), he fondly remembers the sun going down and the fantastic people.

Spandau Ballet play Newmarket Nights on Friday 12.30pm to 10pm, tickets £34-£55, newmarkettickets.thejockeyclub.co.uk / 0844 579 3010.

ROUND UP

● The all new Cambridge-based contemporary theatre company, 55 Kings will be bringing their first full production Burning Bright to the Junction tomorrow. Exciting times.

Written by Livvy Neaves and featuring a park bench, tiger costume, Tequila, social/political statements and unrequited love (what more could you ask for?!), Burning Bright centres on three old school friends, reunited after a funeral, who realise they may have less in common than they used to. . .

First performed at the Fusion Festival last month to rave reviews, the company have been busy developing the play, and these two standalone shows are the fruits of their labour.

● The Gurgles are for fans of acts like Cardiacs, Steely Dan, Prefab Sprout and Japanese eccentrics Yellow Magic Orchestra. Gurgles blend psych with prog and a healthy dose of pop. Their first album is called Gurglesfirst (we wonder how much time they took to come up with THAT title?) and promises multi-hued guitar-driven wonders. Support comes from Cambridge's own Model Village. The Corner House, Wednesday, September 2. Tickets £4 from wegottickets.com.

● Mark Lanegan is probably best known for his lush, romantic-with-an-edge-of-menace collaborations with Isobel Campbell. He also has an ongoing partnership with Greg Dulli as one half of the Gutter Twins, has guest-featured with Queens of the Stone Age and done a whole heap of other one-off collaborations (think UNKLE, Moby, Martina-Topley Bird). Why so? Quite simply, he has one of the most distinctive and remarkable voices in modern music – gravel blended with sugar and a dash of soul. Once you hear him, you'll understand why he's remained in such demand. Cambridge Junction, Thursday, September 3. Tickets £18.50 from (01223) 511511.

THEATRE

THREE OF THE BEST: Siobhan Redmond performs A Lady of Letters; Alan Bennett, the playwright is inset. Below, Karl Theobald stars in A Chip in the Sugar and Stephanie Cole is in A Cream Cracker Under the Settee

Talking Heads, Cambridge Arts Theatre, Monday, August 17 – Saturday, August 22 at 7.45pm. Tickets £15-£25 from (01223) 503333 or cambridgeartstheatre.com

Talking Heads

WHEN Alan Bennett brought the BBC his scripts for the first series of Talking Heads, the director Stuart Burge came up with a novel way to rehearse them.

Bennett had written the six 30-minute episodes as monologues, with each actor directly addressing the camera. Burge thought this unusual approach would need a special kind of intimacy.

His technique was to sit the actors just a foot away and make them look him in the eyes as they said their lines. That was how they spent the three days before filming began.

His work paid off. The plays, three of which are being revived at Cambridge Arts Theatre later this month, quickly became television classics.

The playwright would go on to recall the special air of silence that had descended on the studio as the entire crew became wrapped up in each story. On one occasion, when they were filming the second series in 1998, a cameraman ended up in tears, so moved was he by the performance.

For Bennett it was a small victory. He had once looked enviously at his colleagues Peter Cook and Dudley Moore because of their ability to make the band laugh in the 1960 revue Beyond the Fringe. It was something he'd never been able to do, but at long last, he felt he'd matched them. "At least I've made the cameraman cry," he laughed.

In the first series, Bennett himself starred in A Chip in the Sugar, playing the part of Graham Whittaker, a middle-aged bachelor living happily with his beloved 72-year-old mother until she takes up with a "fancy man" and threatens to throw him out.

At the Cambridge Arts Theatre, it's the turn of Karl Theobald (star of Green Wing, Twenty Twelve and Primeval) to take on the role of Graham.

Back in 1988, Stephanie Cole was in Soldiering On, the fourth Talking Heads episode. Now the Waiting for God actor is performing A Cream Cracker Under the Settee, the heart-breaking story of a 75-year-old woman trying to hold on to her independence as infirmity sets in.

Completing the trio is Siobhan Redmond, last seen in Bath in the RSC/National Theatre of Scotland production of Dunsinane and now playing the obsessive letter-writer Miss Ruddock in A Lady of Letters. A terrible snob, she's forever firing off ill-informed complaints to the authorities until her civilised correspondence turns into harassment.

Although the plays started life on television, they have proved an enduring success on the stage and they have been seen in various combinations everywhere from Chichester to Los Angeles. In 2003, they won the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award for Best Foreign Play as well as a Drama Desk Award for actor Lynn Redgrave.

As the theatre director Richard Eyre has said: "There is no playwright who is so liked by the public, so familiar and, like Noël Coward, so quintessentially English."

Accessorize your Fiat 500X Crossover

MOPAR – the Fiat Chrysler Automobiles brand for services, customer care, spare parts and accessories – has unveiled an extensive range of accessories and personalisation options for the new Fiat 500X crossover.

More than 100 high-quality accessories have been designed specifically for the Fiat 500X crossover to enhance its functionality and allow customers to adapt the look of their vehicle to their particular personalities. The unique range of 18-inch alloys, for example, are offered in a range of colours and aesthetic treatments, priced from £816 for a set of four.

Door mirror fairings are offered in nine colour options from £61 per pair, while door moulding inserts are available in five finishes from £214 a set and there are also a range of original decals for the roof, bonnet and upper and lower body sides in a variety of colours designed to coordinate perfectly with other accessories in the same colour. Pricing for side decals start at £81 while the roof/bonnet

FIAT 500X CROSSOVER:
Bike carrier is tagged at £136

decals start at £127.

There are six "Xtra Pack" kits available which combine a selection of options in single, great-value bundles. The kits – offered in white, red, bronze and beige – feature matching bonnet/roof stripes, mirror fairings and door moulding inserts and are priced at £305, a saving of almost £100 compared to the individually-priced parts.

The 500X's functionality is enhanced by various roof systems, from the 360-litre Freebox (£259) to sports equipment systems (from £112). The Winter Xtra Pack, for example, combines custom-fit roof bars with an adaptor capable of safely carrying four skis or two snowboards as well as a moulded cargo bay protector for snow-covered boots and clothing. The Summer Xtra Pack consists of the same roof bars plus a bike carrier and moulded cargo area tray and is priced at £235.

FOOTBALL: Thurlow Nunn League

UNITED: Newmarket players gather for a minute's silence before kick-off on Saturday

Jockeys optimistic after kicking off new campaign with a draw

AN encouraging performance at Kirkley & Pakefield gave Newmarket Town boss Kevin Grainger plenty to be optimistic about, but he felt his players deserved more than a 1-1 draw from their opening Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division match.

For much of the 90 minutes on Saturday the Jockeys were the better team and enjoyed most of the possession, but they were unable to convert that into goals.

"I'm pleased with how we played but I'm also disappointed," he said. "We were the better side. They're a big powerful side and we dealt with that really well.

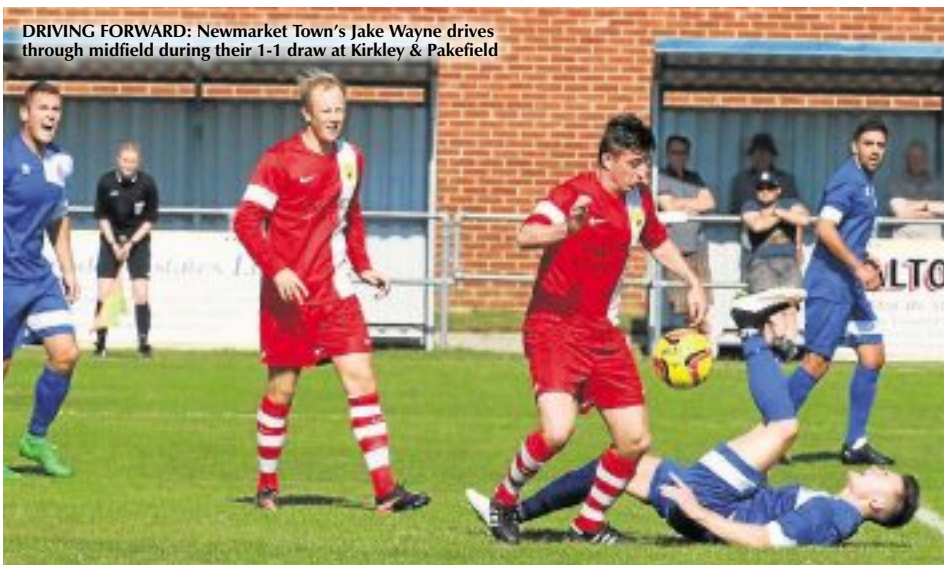

"They had only one shot from open play that our keeper George Lawton saved.

"It bodes well for the season. We at least came away with something which we haven't done in the previous two years."

New signing Joey Abbs scored on his debut early in the first half to give the Jockeys a 1-0 lead, and they created more opportunities before extending their advantage before half time.

Kirkley & Pakefield's main threat came from free kicks and corners,

DRIVING FORWARD: Newmarket Town's Jake Wayne drives through midfield during their 1-1 draw at Kirkley & Pakefield but Newmarket defended the set pieces well and maintained their lead until the interval.

The second half was more evenly contested, with both teams creating chances, but in the 65th minute hosts Kirkley & Pakefield were awarded a penalty when Jake Wayne was harshly adjudged to have backed into an opponent.

The spot kick was converted to make it 1-1.

"It was a harsh penalty," said Grainger.

"Jake didn't move, he didn't do anything."

Newmarket almost took all three points when, with five minutes left, Abbs played in 16-year-old debutant Toby Bicknell who snatched at his shot and squandered the opportunity.

Abbs and Ollie Snaith also went close to scoring a second for Newmarket.

Despite the disappointment at not taking their chances, Grainger was still happy to see his team come away from Kirkley & Pakefield with something to show for their efforts, the first time they have achieved that.

"It bodes well for the season," continued Grainger.

"It helps having a settled team. I'm still looking to bring players in but only if they're better than what we've got at the moment.

"We have some good players and I don't want to bring in squad players. I want to bring in guys who will improve the team."

Grainger has received a further boost with news that Steve Holder looks likely to stay with the club.

Abbs scores debut goal as Newmarket draw

NEW signing Joey Abbs was on the score sheet for Newmarket Town as they drew 1-1 at Kirkley & Pakefield.

The midfielder struck early in the first half of Saturday's Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division match as the visitors opened up a 1-0 advantage at the half time interval.

But hopes of taking all three points back to

Football

Newmarket were dashed in the second half when the home side were awarded a penalty just after the hour from which they netted the equaliser.

Meanwhile, Matt Hayden scored for Mildenhall Town on his debut but it was not enough stop his team losing 2-1 at Ipswich Wanderers.

Hayden struck midway through the second half to equalise after Luke Catchpole's shot had been parried by the Ipswich keeper.

His goal cancelled out the host's first-half opener and would have spurred the visitors on to victory had it not been for some good fortune and excellent saves by the Ipswich keeper.

It was just after a particularly impressive save when Ipswich regained the lead.

An attacking player cut in from the right and was trying to switch play to the left wing when he miscued his pass, the ball bizarrely flying into the top corner of the goal instead.

Burwell fall short despite Richer's all-round display

BURWELL were edged out by two wickets away to Norwich in the Gibbs Denley East Anglian Premier League.

Peter Richer made 67 and Ben Bryant 47, but Norwich dismissed the away side for 193.

Richer went on to take 4 for 54 and Josh Arksey 3 for 62, but Norwich made it over the line.

Joe Reed's century proved in vain as Mildenhall suffered a 10-run defeat at Halstead in Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One.

The hosts racked up 345 for 9, but Reed hit back with 145.

Ben Shepperson (80) and Steve Taylor (38) provided support, but the hosts fell short on 335 for 7.

Worlington suffered a nine-run loss at home to Elmstead.

Grasshoppers chalked up 271 for 7, but despite the efforts of Richard Ford and Jimmy Watson (both 54), Graham Ford (42 not out) and Chris Baugh (31), the hosts missed out with 262 for 8.

In Division Two, Peter Worthington did his bit as Mildenhall II beat Copford at home by nine wickets.

Worthington (4 for 15) backed up Mirza Baig (4 for 4) as the visitors were skittled out for 97 before smashing an unbeaten 73.

Second is first at Hoppegarten

LUCA Cumani and Jamie Spencer teamed up to win the Group One Grosser Preis Von Berlin with Second Step at Hoppegarten racecourse in Germany.

The four-year-old has improved at a rate of knots this season, after signing off his last campaign with a Listed win in Ireland.

First time out he surprised Sir Michael Stoute's Telescope by winning the Jockey Club Stakes at Newmarket and was just touched off back at Headquarters by subsequent Goodwood Cup winner Big Orange.

On Sunday, Second Step appeared to be struggling in fifth, not enjoying the soft ground, when the field turned into the straight.

However, Spencer got a final run out of his mount and he denied it deep inside the final furlong, with German Derby winner Nutan third.

Racing

After a lengthy wait for a Group One (since Presvis won in Dubai in 2011) Cumani has now won two in quick succession after Postponed won the King George at Ascot.

The Newmarket trainer said: "This is the 13th country where I have won a Group race. I walked the track, which is very good. It's in great condition. This horse is very gutsy, he likes a long straight and just comes and comes and comes."

"The more you ask him, the more he finds. Craig (Bennett, owner) wants to go to the Irish St Leger, which makes sense. The distance and track will suit him."

■ Charlie Fellowes plans to run Wet Sail in the Goldene Peitsche at Baden-Baden in Germany.

Having shown little on his seasonal bow in the Carnarvon

Stakes at Newbury in May, the three-year-old returned to form after a short break with a close third in the Listed Queensferry Stakes at Chester at the beginning of the month.

The Newmarket handler is now keen for Wet Sail to return to Pattern company for a crack at the six-furlong Group Three on August 30.

Fellowes said: "We have been waiting for his ground all year and we have taken our time with him. It was a really good run."

"Hopefully we are going to go over to Germany next for the Goldene Peitsche at the end of the month."

"If he runs well there or wins then we may put him in the Champions Sprint on Champions Day at Ascot."

■ Hugo Palmer is happy to put Home Of The Brave back into battle in the Betfred Hungerford Stakes at Newbury on Saturday after his emphatic success at the Curragh.

The Newmarket handler reports his classy three-year-old to have taken his victory over proven Group One campaigner Gordon Lord Byron in the Minstrel Stakes in his stride.

All roads now lead to the Group Two over seven furlongs at the Berkshire track after 24 horses were left in at the confirmation stage.

"The intention is to run Home Of The Brave in the Hungerford Stakes. He has taken his trip to Ireland remarkably well," said Palmer.

"He is a horse who needs a little bit of time between his races and the one day under four weeks between Ireland and Newbury is perfect for him."

"He is a very clear-winded horse who does not need a vast amount of work in between runs and I am as happy with him now as I was 10 days before Ireland."

Fen Tigers show spirit but fall to another away defeat

KEVIN Jolly emphasised Mildenhall's keenness to get back to winning ways at home as their miserable form on the road continued with a 55-34 defeat to Rye House yesterday.

Promoter Jolly admitted his team crumbled in the final third of the meeting, but before then the Fen Tigers were challenging Rye House until Dan Halsey's disastrous tactical ride in heat 11 ensured their fifth straight defeat and 10th away loss.

Halsey and Tom Bacon grabbed the first of only two advantages in heat five as they benefited from Luke Chessell's fall as he chased Halsey to snatch a 4-2 to narrow the deficit to four points.

A Bacon fall in heat eight handed the Raiders a 5-1 but Mildenhall immediately hit back, with Jack Kingston rediscovering some form to beat Chessell, with Rob Watts pinching third to reduce the arrears from 10 points to eight.

But that was as good as it got for the Tigers.

Connor Coles fell in the next, Halsey pirouetted while going for double points, and retirements from both Kingston and Halsey in heat 13 gave the Raiders a 5-0 as they finished with a flurry and maximums for both Kyle Hughes and Ben Morley.

"We're weak at reserve and getting hurt there," said Jolly. "We showed flashes of good stuff and the team spirit was good again, but we fell apart in the last four to five heats."

"We have to make sure we win at home and keep together as much as possible."

"We're a team with potential that's not quite there but we're working on it. The league is very open and we haven't given up on finishing fourth."

Rye House – Hughes 15 (5 rides), Morley 13+2 (5), Bowtell 8 (4), Chessell 6+1 (4), Woods 6+1 (5), Hume 4+1 (4), Priest 3+1 (4).

Mildenhall – Mountain 9+1 (5), Kingston 7 (4), Coles 6+1 (5), Halsey 5 (4), Bacon 4+1 (4), Laurence 2 (4), Watts 1 (4).
